PREFACE

The idea was conceived a while ago, but its execution took great efforts. Despite my best endeavours, I was a bit unsure of the final outcome. Now that the book is about to be published, I feel at once relieved and contented. The sole credit goes to the authors who have enriched this volume with insightful observations of their own. I am happy to provide the contributors with whatever little guidance I am capable of giving. In keeping with the overarching topic of education, the contributors have penned the articles on various subjects. Each flower shines in its own glory; the garland is woven by me. I hope this anthology of essays Impact of Education in the Light of Different Pedagogical Subjects opens up new avenues of meaning, adds new dimensions to the idea of education, and inspire everyone.
